New Smarti Unit Launched at IFSEC

The world-wide release of a newly designed IP65 rated Smarti unit will be made at IFSEC 2006. Both Tab Systems (the manufacturer of Smarti) and AMS will promote this latest addition.

Building upon the success of the innovative fully integrated Smarti Indoor and Outdoor units, with their facial and audio multi-modal biometric identification features, the newly designed component unit features motion detection and integrated lighting.

The full features of Smarti are retained - access control that can be linked with swipe card and fingerprint systems (including BioGuard), and the business tools such as video intercome, instant video messaging and complete photo audit logging of events.

Smarti is undoubtedly a very smart unit - and one that will not only improve your business security but also help reduce costs by streamlining entry management.

We look forward to demonstrating the new Smarti at IFSEC. Take a look - you will not be disappointed.
